

CROSSROADS OF CULTURES

E29

INTRODUCTION

I recently had the opportunity to take part in a youth exchange in Bodrogkeresztúr, Hungary, organized by the amazing team from E29, called Crossroads of Cultures.

The main focus of the project was inclusivity and diversity – two topics that are super important, but also often overlooked in our everyday lives.

Through group activities and time spent with people from different backgrounds, I learned a lot about what it really means to create a space where everyone feels seen, heard, and respected.

MY BELIEFS

What I truly believe I learned from this experience is how powerful it is to step out of your comfort zone and connect with people who are completely different from you – whether that's in terms of culture, background, or personal beliefs.

I'd 100% recommend youth exchanges like this to others, because it helps you grow in ways school or everyday life usually doesn't. You get to travel, meet inspiring people, learn things that actually matter – and have a lot of fun in the process.

CONCLUSION

This youth exchange in Bodrogkeresztúr wasn't just a trip – it was a learning experience that challenged me, inspired me, and made me more aware of the world and the people around me. It reminded me that real change starts with small things: listening, being open, and including others.

I'm really grateful I got to be part of this project, and I hope more young people take the chance to experience something like this. It's honestly something that stays with you long after it's over.
